LOZANO SMITH ATTORNEYS PUBLISHED IN DAILY JOURNAL

Gregory A. Wedner and Kimberly L. Gee, Shareholder in Lozano Smith's Sacramento office and Associate in the Monterey office respectively, were recently published in the October 14, 2011 issue of the Daily Journal. Their published article is entitled, "Government Claims Act: Substantial Compliance or Unnecessary Confusion?"

The article discusses the Government Claims Act requirements, including which of these requirements are being followed, and which are being ignored.

The key points from the article are as follows:

- The Government Claims Act requires plaintiffs to timely notify governmental entities of potential claims.
- Not all cases are following the established procedures, resulting in courts having to review actions taken by those who are filing claims.

The article states, "The Government Claims Act sets forth bright-line rules for the presentation of claims to governmental entities to ensure that a public entity has sufficient information to try to resolve the claim early, without litigation."

The Daily Journal is a daily legal newspaper published by the Daily Journal Corporation.
