

For Immediate Release

Lozano Smith's Breakfast Round Table
Provides Important Legal Updates to Sonoma County Districts

Rohnert Park, CA (June 9, 2009) – Lozano Smith launched the newest offering in its extensive catalog of trainings for school and community college districts since opening its Santa Rosa office earlier this year. Participants included superintendents and directors of business services and human resources from area school and community college districts.

Attorneys from the firm's Santa Rosa, San Ramon, and Sacramento offices shared the latest legal news regarding the worsening budget situation and its implications for staff and salary reductions. One participant described this portion of the program as "excellent information on layoffs, salary reductions, etc." The program also included updates on the complex laws governing open meetings and student privacy and free speech rights.

According to Greg Wedner, the firm's managing shareholder, "everyone in attendance... thoroughly enjoyed the personal attention" afforded by the Round Table format. Lozano Smith plans to continue its program of legal updates for school and community college administrators in the area.

About Lozano Smith

Lozano Smith is a full-service public agency law firm serving hundreds of school and community college districts and numerous cities, counties, and special districts in California. Lozano Smith has offices in Fresno, Monterey, Sacramento, San Ramon, Santa Rosa, Los Angeles and Redding. If you would like more information, please contact Andy Garcia, Director of Administration, at 559.431.5600 or agarcia@lozanosmith.com. You may also visit our web site at www.lozanosmith.com.

###