LOZANO SMITH ATTORNEY SUPPORTS ALMA MATER IN MOOT COURT PROGRAM

Sloan Simmons, Shareholder in Lozano Smith's Sacramento Office, was recently noted regarding his alumni volunteer efforts for the UC Davis School of Law Moot Court program.

In the September 6, 2011 posting on the UC Davis School of Law News site, the Moot Court program and volunteer participation was highlighted. Each fall, second year law students have the opportunity to participate in the Appellate Advocacy course, commonly referred to as Moot Court. This course includes a competition where students write appellate briefs and deliver arguments before volunteer judges.

Sloan Simmons chose to volunteer in this program as an opportunity to give back to the school where he learned his trade. As a volunteer judge to the intraschool competition, Simmons stated "I had a great experience in Moot Court. The time necessary to assist in these ways is minor, about four hours a night when judging, and overall about 8-12 hours between January and February to assist with coaching for competition. The opportunity to support the program and also in a small way give back to King Hall makes the decision to volunteer easy."
